	Auditors are eyes and ears for Banks. Regulators have put responsibility on Branch Statutory Auditors to provide information on issues given in LFAR. Particularly, after migration of banking on computers, proper control on processes has become very important. LFAR is a vital tool available to auditors through which they can comment on Balance Sheet, Profit & Loss account, Prudential norms, process lapses in operations and other issues relating to Branch Statutory Audit. In this article, effort has been made to make auditors understand the importance and coverage of LFAR in computerised banking.

Most of the questions in LFAR contain following lines: 1) Does the branch generally carry or comply..... 2) In the cases examined by you, have you come across instances..... 3) Verification on test check basis..... Hence, it becomes very important for auditor to keep the record of all samples verified for framing the opinion on the different processes in the questionnaire.

	Have the figures, as at the year end, in the control and subsidiary records been reconciled? 		Checking of differences continuing since migration of manual data to computers or prior to migration Prior to migration of data from manual records to computer, in some cases, branches were reconciling sub-GL and GL balance with common differences which were continuing since long. 		Provisioning of differences to reconcile GL and Sub-GL balance
		Auditor can further enquire, whether total liability as per Sub-GL is more than the balance in GL, if yes, in that case bank has to pay more balance to customer than the same available in GL. Hence auditor can also recommend the provision for extra liability to be paid by bank. Example is give below:

				Head of A/c	GL balance/Rs	Sub-GL balance/Rs	Difference
				FDR	Cr 120000	Cr 140000	Cr 20000
				SB	Cr 100000	Cr 110000	Cr 10000
				Total	Cr 220000	Cr 250000	Cr 30000
				In above example, total liability as per sub GL is Rs. 250000 while in GL it is appearing as Rs.220000/-. In this case, if compensatory difference of Rs.30000/- is not available in any other account, auditor can recommend the provision for liability of Rs. 30000 in GL by debiting to profit & loss account.
